WINE & CULINARY ARTS

Wine & Culinary Arts Class – New England Craft Beers - A tasting of some of the finest micro brewed beers offered in the area will be the focus of this afternoon tasting.

Wine & Culinary Arts Class with Chef Berlin - Emulsified Vinaigrettes at home
Making of Vinaigrettes and emulsifications for the home

Wine & Culinary Arts Class - Terroir
Terroir is one of those French words that doesn't have a direct translation, but it is the most important impression that can describe a wine. Terroir embodies the notion that all elements that touch the vine can affect the resulting wine. Think soil structure, the breeze that passes through the vineyard, the amount of sunlight, precipitation and the farmer's touch. We'll taste through a varietal from different terroirs to identify contributing factors that make different regions produce different flavors.

Wine & Culinary Arts Class - Blind Tasting - How can one simply smell and taste a wine and pinpoint exactly what wine it is and where it came from? Through a series of techniques, we will show you can precisely do just that. Discover your hidden palate.

WINE & CULINARY ARTS

Wine & Culinary Arts Class – Classic Cocktails 101 - Explore the world of classic cocktails with our Beverage Team.

Wine & Culinary Arts Class - Vine to Table - The surge in the ideals of natural wines have hit the wine world and turned it upside down. The organic food movement has changed the way people eat and shop for food. But what about what you're drinking? Pesticides used in viticulture are as harmful to the resulting wine as it is to produce. Natural wine does not have specific requirements, think of it as the way our ancestors made wine. Minimalist with no additives. Join us for an exploration in this burgeoning field.

Wine & Culinary Arts Class with Chef Berlin - Chef Wuesthofen - Pastry Cream Demo use's and history
